Welcome from the Vice-Chancellor & President

Dear New Staff Member,

Welcome to the University of Adelaide, one of Australia's oldest and finest universities. For more than 125 years the University of Adelaide has been at the heart of South Australian life, shaping education, research, culture, politics, and economics. We have equipped our Australian and International graduate students to become leaders in their chosen field by providing an environment where they are encouraged to develop independence of thought, creativity and confidence.

Additionally, we have an exceptional national and international reputation for research. We also work with industry and other organisations to ensure our research expertise is translated into tangible benefits for the Australian community.

I am pleased to welcome you to the staff and trust that you will enjoy working with a diverse range of committed staff. As a new staff member you will play an important role in our future. Therefore, you will need to understand how the University works, who can provide you with information and resources to fulfil your role, and your obligations as a staff member. This induction is specifically designed to assist you with this.

I hope that you enjoy working with the University of Adelaide and wish you every success.

Professor James A. McWha
Vice-Chancellor & President

Why induction is important

- As a new staff member employed by the University you require a comprehensive induction to ensure that you can perform your duties in an effective and safe manner.
- You must have successfully completed this course including the HSW and Equity and Diversity online courses within the first three months of your probation. However, please note that there are aspects of induction that will occur at the first six and twelve months of your employment. These are explained at the end of your checklist.
- On the next pages you will find the guides for your first day, first week and first three months.

The First Day

By the end of the first day you can expect to have:

- received a face-to-face induction from your supervisor. This initial induction provides you and your supervisor with an opportunity to get to know each other and be introduced to your colleagues, the work area (including HSW requirements) and your new role.
- agreed upon on meeting dates for the conducting of your first, second and final probationary review meetings with your supervisor. These dates should be placed in both of your diaries.

The First Week

By the end of the first week in your new job you should have:

- discussed with your supervisor detailed aspects of your new job and any staff development and training opportunities available to you.
- received your user ID and password via email in order to access the EO online that must be completed in the first three months of your probation. If you have not received your user ID and password please visit Card Services or email the ITS helpdesk.
- accessed the HSW online induction course by using your email user ID and password.
- undertaken your first review discussing expectations during probation and how performance will be measured during your probationary period.

The First Month

By the end of the first month in your new position you should have:

- discussed any staff development and training requirements with your supervisor, made some progress with the HSW and Equity and Diversity induction courses and begun to work your way through the relevant University policies available on the website.
- undertaken your first probation review meeting, discussing expectations during probation, reviewing your progress and receiving feedback from your supervisor.

The First Three Months

By the end of the first three months you should have:

- reviewed with your supervisor any proposed staff development/training requirements.
- completed the online induction for new staff including the HSW and Equity and Diversity induction courses.
- undertaken your second probation review meeting, discussing expectations during probation, reviewing your progress and receiving feedback from your supervisor.

The Branch oversees the HERDC research publications data collection on behalf of the University and supports research compliance related activities including Human Research Ethics, Animal Ethics, Gene Technology regulation (Institutional Biosafety Committee) and Quarantine. The Branch provides support for the University Research Committee and advice on relevant research policies.

Excellence in Education

Deputy Vice-Chancellor & Vice-President (Academic)

The role of the Deputy Vice-Chancellor and Vice-President (Academic) is to provide leadership in achieving the University's strategic goals, particularly in relation to learning and teaching, including the provision of quality student experience across the University and the ongoing professional development of University staff.

Pro Vice-Chancellor (Learning and Quality)

The Pro Vice-Chancellor (Learning & Quality) contributes to achieving the University's strategic goals by providing leadership in the areas of learning and teaching, as well as oversight of the University's quality assurance processes.

Faculty Associate Deans (Learning and Teaching)

Associate Deans (Learning and Teaching) are members of the University Learning and Teaching Committee (ULTC) and contribute to learning and teaching within their Faculty in accordance with the University's and Faculty's strategic plans.

The University of Adelaide Strategic Plan (2008 – 2012) states that “In a great research university, education and research are not alternatives but integrated, mutually supportive and equally valued activities” and identifies as the primary education goal for the University to “provide a distinctive learning experience of high quality for our students”.

The Excellence in Education project is an overarching project to significantly improve the student experience at the University.

The project includes initiatives across following areas:

- Student Experience;
- Teaching Quality;
- Quality of Offerings;
- Curriculum Quality;
- Facilities;
- Information Technology; and
- Policy Development.
